UCSD Perception and Cognition Lab

Dear Dr. John Serences,

You might not be actively looking for new research assistants at the moment, but I was excited to see that you will always consider passionate and well-qualified applicants.

I am currently pursuing a degree in cognitive science and planned to graduate in the upcoming academic year. As I have completed most of the required major courses, I am efficient at collaborative work, collecting data using research methods, and analyzing data to draw answers for numerous hypothesis.

Some of the skills that I can contribute to the Lab are:

- Implementing research methods and research process
- Adept to word processing skills, python, and java
- Well-versed in SONA procedures with more than 40 times of experiment participated experiences
- Excellent attention to detail, ability to put passion into work
- Adaptive to learn new materials, and follow supervision in a respectful manner

Other than these skills, I truly think working in the lab is fun. Imagining myself working as a research assistant makes my heart beat so fast. If there are further questions to address, I am more than ready to answer them through the provided contact information. Thank you in advance for your time and consideration. I look forward to discussing more details in person.

Sincerely,

Byungkwon Han
